

NEW GUN FOUNDRY NOT IN ESTIMATES

Secretary Meyer Forced to Eliminate Item in Interest of Economy.

NEED NEW PLANT, SAYS NAVY HEAD

Thousand Navy Yard Employees and Business Men Will Be Disappointed.

The estimates of the Secretary of the Navy for the next fiscal year do not include the request for an appropriation of $100,000, or, in fact, any sum, for beginning work on a new gun foundry at the Washington Navy Yard.

In a statement to a representative of The Times today, Secretary Meyer said that no provision had been made in his completed estimates for the foundry at the Naval Gun Factory, and that he did not contemplate asking Congress to make any such provision at least for some years to come.

This news will be a great disappointment to the thousands of employees at the Washington Navy Yard, and the people of Washington in general, who have been clamoring for the new foundry for several years. Repeated efforts have been made to get an appropriation through Congress to build a new and modern foundry, but each time these efforts have failed by a narrow margin. The Washington Chamber of Commerce last year, through the Columbia Lodge of Massachusetts, representing practically all the machinists at the yard, and with the League of Navy Yard Employees, but all in vain. Year before last the fight was won in the Senate, only to be lost in the House by a mustering of the Cannon forces, and last year it was won in the House, to go out on a few votes in the Senate.

It had been confidently expected that the Secretary of the Navy would include the estimates in his regular budget, and Emmet L. Adams, president of Federal Lodge of Machinists, and James O'Connell, president of the International Association of Machinists, the leaders in the fight, have ready a pile of statistical data to lay before Congress. This data tends to show that the building of the foundry would save the Government thousands of dollars a year, and that the building would pay for itself in a few years. It is claimed by the representatives of the machinists that the Government is being mulcted by the Steel trust for gun castings. With the present old foundry no gun bigger than a four-inch can be cast at the Washington Navy Yard, and all the bigger and modern gun castings have to be made by the big steel companies. For these castings the Government has to pay a big price, and then has to transport them to Washington to be finished at the Washington Navy Yard. It is an acknowledged fact that the machinists at the Washington Navy Yard are the best in the country, and it is claimed that better work can be done there. The Navy Department has asked repeatedly for the money, but to all pleas Congress has turned a deaf ear.

Secretary of the Navy Meyer, in stating that he had included the foundry in his estimates, said that he had cut this item much against his will, but was forced to do so through the economy in naval expenditures. The Secretary is a great believer in the Washington Navy Yard and would like to enlarge and improve it. After his recent inspection tour of the naval gun factory, the Secretary expressed his pleasure at the high state of efficiency of gun works. Admiral Leutze, the commandant of the yard, went over the old foundry carapace with the Secretary, and explained that it was all right for small for any practical use in the present day. With a new foundry at the navy yard here all naval ordnance could be made here complete.

Although Secretary Meyer will make no definite statement, it is probable that he will include provision for a new foundry in his estimates next year.

Y. M. C. A. MEN GOING TO SILVER BAY, N. Y.

Washington Association Will Be Well Represented at Seventh Annual Summer Institute.

Sieman, Jr., and Miles M. Shand, from the board of managers, and C. D. Wetzel and R. A. Matthews, from the membership committee.

Later in the summer General Secretary William Knowles Cooper will attend the sessions, which will continue until September 1.

The Silver Bay Institute is composed of officers and members of the Y. M. C. A. in the Eastern and Southern States and Canada. Among the members of the various faculties are some of the best-known lecturers and educators of the East and South. Fred B. Smith, of the International committee, will be among the speakers.

INSPECTORS SEIZE SWORD FOR TAFT

NEW YORK, July 31.—Among the art goods brought over by Haji Abdullah and Rasoul Mehmet and seized by the customs inspectors on the charge of attempted smuggling is a gold-hilted sword which Abdullah declares was a personal gift to President Taft. The men will be ordered to pay a penalty, and the goods, which are valued at $3,000, will be returned to them upon their agreement to take them out of the United States.

FOUND $100,000 HIDDEN.

FORT PLAINS, N. Y., July 31.—More than 100,000 in bonds, banknotes, and gold has been found hidden in the house of Miss Elizabeth Dieffendorf, the recluse who died here, leaving an estate estimated at $1,000,000. A gold-hilted sword is to be played, and the house torn down if further search promises returns.

RECKONING DAY SOON FOR ANTI-CANNONITES

Speaker Has Kept Still During Tariff Debate, But When He Makes Committee Appointments Faithful Will Get Rewards and the Others Cast Out.

As soon as the tariff bill is out of the way Speaker Cannon will make some announcements which will cause the House members to hark back to the days when the rules were being fought and an effort made to defeat him. Those who were faithful will be rewarded with desirable committee appointments, and those who remained in the fight from start to finish will be finished.

Soon after he had been re-elected the Speaker declared to the friends of anxious members that he harbored no ill will toward any one. He expressed his admiration for men who fight for a principle, and declared that having been the victor he did not wish to "rub it in" on the vanquished.

Committee assignments were temporarily forgotten during the tariff discussion, but now that the House is on the eve of disposing of that measure, members have been doing some quiet investigating, and they find that the Speaker still has a vivid recollection of his enemies in the rule fight, and he proposed to remind them that they were on the wrong side by giving them the most undesirable appointments he can find.

Gardner Marked.
Representative A. P. Gardner of Massachusetts, who was chairman of the Committee on Expositions at the last session, and who was the most ardent opponent of the House organization, does not expect to be reappointed as chairman of his committee; in fact, he is certain that he will not be. Representative "Bill" Rodenberg of Illinois, the Speaker's enthusiastic supporter, is a member of the committee who aspires to the chairmanship. Rodenberg worked night and day for Mr. Cannon last February and is almost certain of reward.

Representative Cooper of Wisconsin, who also fought Cannon and the rules, is due to be reappointed as chairman of the Committee on Insular Affairs. The insurgents have gathered frequently while the tariff bill was over in the Senate and made their headquarters in the spacious room of the Committee on Insular Affairs.

EARLY PLANS SUIT AGAINST DISTRICT

Alleged Leper to Seek Damages for Being Quarantined Here.

Information has reached Washington that John Early will within a few days enter suit against the District for confining him as a leper.

Health Officer Woodward said today, however, that he has heard nothing from Early or his representatives since his departure from Washington, and is not informed as to his intention to sue the District.

Early is now a private patient at the Skin and Cancer Hospital in New York, where he is taking a course of treatment under the direction of Dr. L. Duncan Bulkley. The hospital physicians and Dr. Bulkley assert that Early is not suffering from the disease now, and that he never had it. It is their contention that the skin disease which the District officials diagnosed as leprosy was contracted in the pulp mills of North Carolina, where Early worked before he joined the Salvation Army in Washington.

To prove that theory, Dr. C. Augustus Simpson, formerly in the Skin and Cancer Hospital, will go to North Carolina and make an examination of several of the pulp mill workers who are said to be suffering from a disease similar to that of Early. He will take a number of cultures and may make arrangements for some of the workers to come North in time to be produced as witnesses.

Dr. Simpson made an examination of Early during his confinement here a year ago, and Early is now under his supervision in New York. It is expected that he will be one of the principal witnesses to be called by Early. The alleged leper has not yet decided when he will bring his suit for damages, but probably will do so as soon as the medical experts have prepared their case.

Dr. Simpson is a graduate of George Washington University, and practiced here for some time before going to New York. There he took a course in Willard and Parker, and the Post-Graduate Hospital, and passed a competitive examination for a staff appointment at the Skin and Cancer Hospital.

ONE WILD MONKEY ROAMS OUR STREETS

Trusted Simian Runs From Animal Store—Climbs Fire-Escapes.

Somewhere in the District a pig-tailed monkey is roaming at large, enjoying his first freedom since he was brought to this country from Africa several months ago. The monkey, regarded as a "trusty" by the proprietor of an animal store in Twelfth street, was let out of his cage for a little while yesterday, and the first time the door was opened by a customer he made a dash for freedom.

The simian enjoyed himself climbing on the fire-escapes at the Carolina, Eleventh and G streets, for a time, and then visited a drug store and a lunch room. When last night he was running up an alley in Twelfth street.

It is thought the monkey may pay a visit today to some of his relatives at the National Zoological Park.

SNOW IN NEBRASKA.

OMAHA, Neb., July 31.—The local weather forecasters are today unable to explain the weather phenomenon of last night, when snow fell for two minutes. At 9 o'clock the temperature stood at eighty degrees, while at 9:40 o'clock a storm broke, and with the mercury at sixty-nine degrees, the snowflakes began to fall.

boys," said Mr. Cooper, at a recent meeting of the insurgents. "I don't expect to be chairman much longer."

It is believed that Martin E. Olmsted of Pennsylvania will be elevated to the post of chairman. Olmsted is not the ranking member on the committee, but he is a loyal supporter of the Speaker and the rules, and that counts more than seniority. He has called many columns of the Congressional Record during the extra session in defending Pinpoint, Representative Crumpacker of Indiana, and Hamilton of Michigan, both rank Olmsted.

Victor Murdock of Kansas, unlike most of the other Republicans in the House, had only committee assignment during the Sixtieth Congress, and present indications are that he will lose that. He was a member of the Committee on Postoffices and Post Roads. He "insured" in the committee room just as he "insured" on the floor. He is a House, and one of the last acts of Jesse Overstreet before going back to Indiana to continue his law practice. He should not have been re-elected, but in form the Speaker that his committee would be more peaceful if Murdock were removed.

Trouble For Murdock.

It is probable that the Speaker will shunt the Auburn-haired Kansan off to the Committee on Accounts, or some body equally as useful. That will not worry Murdock in the least, for he will then have plenty of time to pick flaws in the rules and plot for the downfall of Cannonism.

The constituents of "Uncle Pete" Hepburn forestalled the Speaker in meeting out punishment to the dean of the insurgents. He was chairman of the Committee on Interstate Commerce at the last session, and would certainly have lost it had he been re-elected. Hepburn continues to make his headquarters in his old committee room, and probably will do so until a radical Cannon man picks his job.

Representative Mann of Illinois is the man picked for Hepburn's job. He is close to the Speaker, and in the old days saved that dignity the trouble of refusing to recognize members on private bills by objecting when unanimous consent was asked. Mann is outranked on the committee by Wagner of Pennsylvania, but it is his mind to appoint Mann.

THAW'S SANGUINE OVER THE OUTCOME

Spends Morning Preparing Rebuttal Testimony for Monday's Hearing.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 31.—Harry K. Thaw today began the preparation of rebuttal testimony to be introduced when the habeas corpus proceedings looking to his release from Matteawan are resumed before Judge Mills, on Monday.

Charles Morschauer, Thaw's counsel, with a mass of legal data, including the records of the two Thaw murder trials appeared at the White Plains jail early today, and the two settled down to a day of hard work in Thaw's cell.

While admitting that the advent of his old antagonist, William Travers Jerome, into the case, has made his position more difficult, Thaw said this morning that he is still confident that Justice Mills will set him free.

"I think Justice Mills will not consider much of the testimony which the other side has introduced," said Thaw, "when we show that it is utterly false. The action of Justice Mills, and the question he asked me yesterday, make me believe that he is absolutely fair, and I am sure that I have shown, during my examination, that whatever my mental condition may have been when I killed White, I am now absolutely sane."

Jerome is well pleased with the turn the case has taken. He expressed himself as being particularly satisfied with the short examination to which Thaw was subjected by Judge Mills, yesterday. It was quite evident that Thaw was confused and excited under the questioning of the judge, who went straight to the heart of the case.

Jerome will call alienists.

Jerome plans to call to the stand a number of alienists and put to them an extensive hypothetical question, based upon the facts brought out during the two trials of Thaw for murder, and new ones shown during the present proceeding. For this purpose, the district attorney is reading into the record practically all the testimony regarding insanity given at the former trials.

As Thaw was then trying to prove himself insane, the contents then advanced, and the stories now told by the Thaw side show glaring inconsistencies.

One of the most important changes is that of the Rev. C. B. Macksey of New York. Father Macksey has been at Georgetown the past four years, and has been active in the schemes for the advancement of the institution. The Rev. J. R. Creedon, T. A. Ermet, Martin McNeal, and C. Sullivan, S. J., of Woodstock College, take the places of the retiring fathers. Messrs. Walsh, Dolan, Ayer, Murphy, Ott, and Dalton take the places of the retiring scholars. The rest of the staff remains as last year.

Father Thomas S. Harlin, S. J., for five years pastor of the old Georgetown congregation, goes to Boston College, the change being made at his request because of ill health. His place will be filled by the Rev. Edward H. Corbett, S. J., of Boston College.

A number of changes will be made in the faculty of Gonzaga College under the announcement posted today. The Rev. Aloysius J. Guiney, S. J., goes to St. Andrews-on-the-Hudson for his term; the Rev. HIGH TRIBUTE PAID TO COBWEB ROOST

Visit to Shoemaker's With Senator and Supreme Court Judge Deeply Impresses Fra Elbertus.

"A Little Journey to Shoemaker's" is the title of an interesting volume printed early today, and in type to suit the weakest eyes which Fra Elbertus, the sage of East Aurora, has dedicated to the Capital's most famous place of liquid refreshment. The author of other "little journeys" refers to his latest as "being an appreciation and an eye-opener."

The leading Roycroft, who recently visited Shoemaker's on a hot afternoon, accompanied by a Senator and a member of the Supreme Court, says of the place:

"Now, here is a concern that spits on System, sneezes at Order and Cleanliness, defies Progress, and grows rich by reversing Sheldon's on Salesmanship. What is the psychology of this success? Simply this: Man likes to play at make-believe. Also, we like a change. The men who come here mostly live in palaces. They are rich and powerful. They bear big burdens. Here they relax and are free from the vigils of the Butler, wife, daughters, or decent neighbors. It is democracy carried to the limit. And in spite of the fact that the whole place looks like a robber's roost, it is the most decentable booze bazaar in Washington."

RESCUER DROWNS; FRIEND IS SAVED

ATLANTIC CITY, July 31.—Friends are preparing today for the burial of George Gregory, of Philadelphia, who was drowned in the surf yesterday afternoon while attempting to save the life of an endangered companion. Gregory and five others entered the water about the time the life guards began their duty. One of the swimmers got in a bad cross current, and was swept off his feet. While the friends were forming a human chain to rescue the man in danger, Gregory lost his hold and was himself drowned. Later his body was recovered.

NAVAL BATTALIONS SAIL ON THE PRAIRIE

District's Sailors With Several Hundred From Philadelphia and New Jersey Aboard, Eagerly Awaiting for Meeting With Fleet at Provincetown..

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., July 31.—At daybreak today, the United States cruiser Prairie steamed down the Delaware river from the Philadelphia Navy Yard, bound for Provincetown, with 400 naval reserves, all of them anxious to get on board the warships and take part in the maneuvers of the Atlantic squadron.

One hundred and forty of these reserves were from Washington, 180 from Pennsylvania, and the remainder from New Jersey.

The Washington battalion was the first to arrive in Philadelphia yesterday. Clad in their white duck suits, they arrived at Broad Street Station on a special train at 1 o'clock. A large crowd greeted them at the station, but the order was given immediately to board trolley cars for League Island. Forging in company line at the gates of the Navy Yard, they marched a mile to the lower end of the yard and boarded the Prairie.

The men lounged around and inspected the gunboat until 4 o'clock in the evening, when they welcomed the Pennsylvania and New Jersey men.

In the afternoon a band concert was given for the men on the parade ground. In the early evening the men wished that it was morning so that they could set out on the last leg of the trip for Provincetown, as they were all anxious to join the fleet. They will be assigned in squads of twenty-five men each to all of the battleships and then the hard work for two weeks will commence.

From 5 o'clock in the morning until 11 o'clock at night there will be nothing but drill. The main part of the day will be taken up in target practice and an opportunity will be given the reserves to some very proficient.

After the fleet sails from Provincetown to Hampton Roads the Prairie will meet the Washingtonians and take them back to the Capital.

THE TIMES' GUESTS INVADE LUNA PARK

Popular Resort Turned Into
"Orderly Bedlam" by Happy Youngsters.

If all the energy that spent itself within the confines of Luna Park today could have been stored into a huge noise-making dynamo its volume might have made Niagara sound as if the big cataract had gone into temporary sleep. Energy unbounded, unalloyed, and as healthy as American youth can make and enjoy it, was the force that ruled Washington's popular pleasure park this afternoon when several car loads and then some more of the District's school children went there as guests of The Times and turned it for a time into their playground.

Luna Park will be their source of delight from 1 o'clock this afternoon till 6 this evening, and during these hours every one of its wonders, including the scenic railway, the chutes, the motion pictures, the dancing pavilion, will be free to this unconquerable juvenile army of invasion.

Their faces flushed with happy anticipation, a small army of The Times' little funseekers gathered at the Twelfth street station of the Washington, Alexandria and Mt. Vernon Railway at 1 o'clock and scrambled into several waiting cars. Some of them were accompanied by their mothers or big sisters, while others came alone and were care free, as if chaperoned by any grown-ups was helpful to their youthful sense of freedom. Because all of them couldn't get on the first cars some waited and followed a few minutes later.

Arriving at the park the school children were met by Manager Goodfellow and his corps of assistants.

"The park is yours, boys and girls. Go and see all you can," announced the manager, whose statement was greeted by the cheers of some 300 youngsters. "Ain't he just grand?" beamed a little miss dressed in a white frock and pink stockings, as grasping another little girl's hand, they scampered across the grounds in the wake of a group of boys. All through the afternoon they will arrive and depart, these hosts of school children pleasure seekers, all of whom have waited for days past to go down, as guests of The Times, on this round-up of
